DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-4 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US 6,241,747 to Ruff.

(claim 1) Ruff discloses a surgical thread 2 capable for use in cosmetic operations made of a polymeric material (col. 4, lines 29-31), containing successively arranged along its length inclined notched protrusions made in the form of conical barbs 6 with pointed flexible and elastic ends (see Figs. 1 and 2), the barbs positioned on several sides along the section of the thread with a successively alternating inclination.

(claim 2) As seen in Fig. 2, the elevation of the barb ends is less than the diameter of the thread. Also, as seen in Figs. 1-2, the interval between the barbs are less than two diameters of the thread.

(claim 3) As seen in Figs. 1-2, the notched barbs are provided on two opposite sides of the thread, the direction of their inclination being opposite as well (Fig. 3)

(claim 4) The barbs are provided on two sides with an alternating direction of their inclination (Fig. 4).

(claim 7) The barbs are positioned in a staggered order along the thread (Figs. 1-2).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

5. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ruff, and as evidenced by US 3,221,746 to Noble.

Ruff discloses the barbs to be integrally formed with the suture thread, wherein the barbs are viewed as needles, or pointed objects. Ruff is silent with regards to the barbs having sockets for fixation on the thread. However, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to separate the barbs from the suture thread using sockets or any other attachment means because it has been held that constructing a formerly integral structure in various elements involves only routine skill in the art. In re Dulberg, 289 F.2d 522, 523, 129 USPQ 348, 349 (CCPA 1961).

It is also noted that barbs are known in the art to be formed as a separate element from the main structure, as evidenced by the Noble reference (see Figs. 1-3). Since integrated barbs or separated barbs have now been shown to be well known variants in the art, one of ordinary skill in the art would still have found it obvious to construct a formerly integral structure in various elements since it merely involves only routine skill in the art. Moreover, simple substitution of one known element (integrated barbs) with another known element (separated barbs) will provide predictable results (such as a working barbed suture). KSR Int'l Co. v. Teleflex Inc., 127 S.Ct. 1727, 1742, 82 USPQ2d 1385, 1396 (2007).

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 10/19/07 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.
7. In response to applicant's argument that the device of Ruff is not used in cosmetic surgery, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. As such, the device of Ruff is fully capable of being used in cosmetic operations, such as to close wounds.
8. As to claim 6, the case law, In re Dulberg, that states "constructing a formerly integral structure in various elements involves only routine skill in the art". Therefore, re-constructing an integral barb to have separate barbs would merely require routine skill in the art, especially since the Noble reference is provided as an evidence that having separate barbs from a main structure is well known in the art.

Conclusion

9. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
